Customs Brokerage is one of the most complex areas of international trade. Even the most experienced professional finds complying with the multitude of government regulations and requirements a daunting task.

A licensed broker and an importer must maintain a close relationship. Trust and confidence in the expertise offered by the broker form the foundation of this relationship. The importer depends upon the licensed broker not only to process the necessary documentation, but also to advise them of potential liability issues, changes in customs policy and any problems that may arise that will delay shipment delivery.

John S. James Co. maintains one of the highest broker/staff ratios in the industry by employing over twenty Licensed Customs Brokers (LCB's) in our six locations. These individuals are also Certified Customs Specialists (CCS's) and gained this certification through the National Customs Brokers and Forwarders Association of America's Educational Institute.

MARINE CARGO INSURANCE

ABILITY | KNOWLEDGE | TECHNOLOGY | EXPERIENCE

DID YOU KNOW?...

Under the Carriage of Goods by Sea Act (COGSA), the maximum liability of the Steamship line is only $500 per Customary Shipping Unit (CSU)?

A Customary Shipping Unit isn't the individual piece, box, or pallet. It is rather the entire ocean container where your goods are stored.

Cargo insurance is a critical, but often overlooked aspect of the international transaction. We provide our clients with the best coverage possible at extremely competitive rates. Our combined expertise allows us to minimize your risk in your international transactions.

In the course of international transportation, any of a number of events may happen that could diminish the value of your cargo. From pilferage, to water damage, to the declaration of General Average – cargo is always at risk. We offer multiple levels of coverage to protect your firm against the threat of loss from most all adverse occurrences.

By allowing John S. James Co. to issue your insurance coverage along with your transportation documentation, you save money by limiting the chance of errors and avoiding costly repetition of document preparation. Further, allowing us to handle your insurance speeds the processing of any claims filed, as we maintain close access to all of your relevant documentation.
